Busy With the Stands.

CASES IN THE POLICE COURT

After an analysis by chemists of the contents of several bottles variously labeled and others unlabeled, City License Inspector K. B. Hicks swore out warrants against A. M. Laveison & company, R. W. Adams, colored, and Tony Isaman for selling the liquor without a city license. Seventeen bottles of the drinks were purchased by the license inspector and sent to the chemist. Ten of the bottles when analyzed, he said, showed a percentage of 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 of alcohol, while a few came under 2 per cent and one or two were under 1 per cent of alcohol. The strongest of beers do not contain more than 4 per cent of alcohol.

The drinks were sold to the customers on August 8. The bottles were packed and receipts were secured to and from the chemist.

A. M. Laveison & company has a wholesale license, but will be prosecuted for selling soft drinks without a city license. The warrants against Tony Isaman charge him with selling beer without a license. The prosecution has learned that Isaman had his state and federal retail liquor license transferred from his saloon on South Second street to Eleventh street and Broadway, where the liquor was sold under a tent. Some of the bottles were labeled "Tempone," "Dr. Pizz," "Jack Frost" and others were not labeled. K. W. Adams, colored, was arrested on the same charge. License Inspector Hicks put in a strenuous day and bought the samples, and in one instance the proprietor turned the purpose and refused to make a sale to him, but the license inspector was not to be downed and he confiscated a bottle.

This morning in court the case was ready, but some evidence of the prosecution can not be secured until Friday and the case was continued. Attorney Charles K. Wheeler represented A. M. Laveison & company, and he agreed to admit that the sale was made. City Solicitor James Campbell, Jr., and Mr. Wheeler failed to agree on a state of facts.

Samples of other suspected drinks from brewery firms were analyzed, but the percentage of alcohol was under two percent.

MYSTERY OF A DEAD TRAGEDY DECLARED SEALED SOLUTION.

Louisville, O., Aug. 22.—As a result of testimony developed at the second inquest into the shooting here last Friday of Miss Hester Porter and her niece's husband, Morris H. Stein, the authorities at Des Moines, have been wired to detail Mrs. Mae Stein, widow of the dead man, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Hayward, sister of Miss Porter.

Officiers here are confident they are near a solution of the mysterious tragedy in which Stein, a young automobile salesman of Des Moines, and the aunt of his wife, an elderly woman, when he had known less than two hours, were the victims.

Stein, complaining of feeling tired, went into the parlor to lie down. A moment later he called to Miss Porter. She answered his call. Almost immediately three shots were fired. Miss Porter was found dead with two bullet wounds in the back of her head. By her side lay Stein, with a shot through his brain. At their feet lay a revolver with three chambers empty in the pocket of his coat in another room was a note, ostensibly from Stein, saying his aunt had shot him. It was thought at first that Stein had shot Miss Porter and then himself. This theory, however, has been abandoned. The authorities believe it a case of double murder.

SANTA CLAUS GOODS ARE ON DISPLAY IN PADUCAH EVEN IF THE WEATHER IS HOT

Some New Mechanical Toys
That Will Delight Children
Next December.

Santa Claus has been in Paducah this summer on a short visit, and right from his toy factory in the cold north, too. The old gentleman made the trip in an automobile and because he did not wear his customary set of furs the young people did not recognize him when he was seen. The hot weather made him hurry back to his home in the frigid north, but he left greetings to the little children and left a splendid selection for the merchants to choose their Christmas stocks from. Aside from a business trip Santa Claus went on a sly trip to see that all of the children had in record of good behavior.

The fact is that the "Three Links" building resembles a sample room of Kels Kringle's shop, for a representative of a toy company has a display there. Among the many toys for Christmas with which to fill the stockings there are many, as the toy maker has advanced in his art. For the little girl there is the crying doll, a doll that looks just as pretty as a real baby, and can be just as bad as a real cherub. Some of the dolls have a button concealed under the dress and by pressing this the doll will cry out not unlike a several days' old infant. Others are more delicate, and by picking up the baby in a certain way there is a loud howl. Probably parents that are fond of sleeping in day time will avoid this doll or there will not be any peaceful slumber when the children are playing with dolls. Some of the dolls open their mouths when the button is pressed, and the effect is more realistic.

For the boys there is the improved printing press, just like the large press of the metropolitan papers. The type is placed on a cylinder, and by turning a crank the press starts and the paper unrolls from a large roll and is printed just like the "Evening Sun" is printed on its big press. No doubt this will please the lads. Another novelty for both boys and girls is the miniature moving picture machine. The machine has small films and everything is complete for the show, and by borrowing sister's

NIGHT RIDER SHOT.

Paducah, Ky., Aug. 22. (Special.)—Night riders burned the barn of Walter Galloway near here last night. Galloway died on them. A wounded man named Palmer was hit five times with lead shot. He came here and had the shot picked out. No arrests have yet been made.

BREAKING SEAL OF CAR IS CHARGE AGAINST YOUTHS

Charged with breaking the seal of a box car, Robert Hopson, Henry Salender, Wiley Hoffman, Al Stein and St. Young, were arrested last night and locked up in the police station. The five young men were in the south yards and ten minutes before a freight train left it was inspected and all the cars found sealed. At Kreh's the conductor found a car broken open and heard voices inside. The door was locked and when Mayfield was reached P. H. Waldrop and Robert Lewis were called and the car was opened. The boys were arrested and brought back to Paducah and turned over to P. C. Kirk, of the railroad police, and Patrolmen Bryant and Rousch. This morning in police court Judge Crow told them of the seriousness of the charge, and continued the case until Monday morning.

Goldie Meyers Wanted.

Detective Henry Bailey went to Cairo this morning to bring back Goldie Meyers, charged with obtaining money by false pretenses. It is alleged that Meyers hired a horse and buggy from the Palmer Transfer company and failed to return it for many hours.

MISSING FACES ON PADUCAH'S RIALTO ONCE MORE TODAY

It was "Amateur Night" at Mayfield Sure Enough for "Two Jays"

Then One of the Prettiest Girls Was Attached.

"OFFICE CHAIRMAN" HASTY EXIT

Missing faces from Paducah's amateur Rialto around Fifth street and Broadway showed up this morning with catlike checks, tear-streaked and blackened eyebrows, smeared around gleam-heavy eyes. They were the remnants of the Halsey Musical Comedy company that Thomas Halsey took to Mayfield. Like everything else from Paducah that ever went to Mayfield, the touch of the finally was given the production of "Two Jays," and discussed amateurs, who trod the boards week after week in Paducah, returned to read the Clapper and dream dreams of professional triumphs.

Not only did the audience at Mayfield disapprove of the performance, but Chief of Police McNitt attached one of the young ladies, Miss Margaret Bruce, of 1022 South Eleventh street, at the instance of her mother, Chief McNitt had in mind bringing Miss Bruce back this morning. He took her in charge after the performance last night, and he was wonderfully embarrassed when the entire "bunch of pretty girls and funny comedians," as the girls say, boarded the train with him.

No press agent greeted the reporters with the story of the histrionic achievement in Graves county last night, but the outfit appeared at the police station, accompanied by officers and Mrs. Bruce, and this gave rise to rumors of a wholesale kidnapping that would have cost a professional press agent to death.

The company was composed chiefly of young boys and girls that have done stunts on the stages of the moving picture shows. The Andrews Opera company played a two nights' engagement at Wallace park last week, followed by open dates. The principals then sang and played at moving picture shows. The Halsey Musical Comedy company was organized with many of the local amateurs in the east, and the trip was made to Mayfield. A fine crowd greeted the show, for it was well advertised, but before the curtain had been up long there were ominous expressions of dissatisfaction from the audience, and after a quick curtain the performers took the manager's advice and left.

Miss Margaret Bruce was taken in charge by Chief of Police McNitt and this morning she was placed on the train for home. But the members of the troupe were on the train also and some still wore red cheeks, blackened eyebrows and powdered hair.

MYSTERIOUS FIRE DESTROYS HOUSE ON NORTH TENTH

Minnie Brown Awakens Just

Burning to Death.

Seizes Clothes and Springs
Out Window.

MOST OF GOODS ARE RESCUED

Last night the home of Minnie Brown, 1019 North Tenth street, in the First ward, was discovered on fire of a mysterious origin. When discovered the house was ablaze all over and the neighbors were awakened by the sound of the falling roof. When the firemen from station No. 3 reached the house after a run of four blocks the building was doomed, although most of the household goods were saved.

Minnie Brown was the only occupant of the house, and she had a narrow escape. She did not awaken until after the alarm had been turned in, and finding her exit blocked off at the door she seized her clothes and jumped out of a window. The loss on the house, which belonged to the Vinson estate, will be about $300, with insurance that will cover the loss. Fire company No. 3 and the truck from No. 4 station answered the alarm and kept the blaze from spreading to nearby buildings.

The origin of the fire is a mystery, and as it was not discovered until so late, the firemen could not determine what part was burning first. However, the firemen believe that the blaze was an incendiary one. Several houses have been stoned in that part of the city, and the fire department has been called out to extinguish fires of incendiary origin.

There was a sudden drop in water-melons, cantaloupes and apples this morning when the mule of John Kinkadee, a marketer, ran away and threw everything out of the wagon. The mule was frightened by a bicycle and ran several blocks on Elizabeth street before it was stopped. Small boys got busy and picked up the melons and fruit and restored it to the owner, who remembered the lads with a good treat.

SECOND VICTORY

FOR "DR. FIZZ," A. M. LEAVISON & CO.'S POPULAR DRINK.

Cake Against T. H. Reed for Selling It On Sunday Dismissed in the Police Court.

A. M. Leavison & company won another signal victory in the police court this morning for their popular soft drink, "Dr. Fizz," when in the case of T. H. Reed, of Ninth and Boyd streets, who was arrested for selling the beverage on Sunday, the jury brought in a verdict of acquittal. The evidence proved there is no alcohol in the drink, and therefore it is no violation to sell it on Sunday, nor is city license necessary for its sale. In the case against Thomas Cole a few days ago the same verdict was rendered and the drink declared a non-intoxicant, as in this case, "Dr. Fizz" is one of the best sellers Leavison & company have, and the makers contend, as the evidence in these two cases clearly indicated, and there is no alcohol in the drink, and that it is purely a soft drink.

Progress of the Potato.

In America its ancient home, man-kind's world-wide friend, the potato, is being trained to do stunts that will make it more of a friend than ever. Hurbank is improving its size and flavor, but a Connecticut farmer has done better—he has improved the potato's habits, and now instead of burying itself in the ground, it flourishes upon the plant above ground. No bone back-breaking digging; instead a gentle shaking of the bush, and this peach of the ground falls gently into the basket.

This is a step in the right direction. The potato, educated so far, will not stop, but will soon learn to run its vines into the kitchen and hold the fruit—vegetable is too, lowly a term—in boiling water until it is cooked into smiling mealiness. What can now stop the advantage of the Irish-American potato the nourishment of poets and patriots?—New York American.

EXCELLENT RACES, WITH NO DELAYS

Entertained Large Crowd at Edgewood Yesterday.

King Onward Ambles Through Two Heats in Easy Style, Winning the Race.

RUNNING EVENTS ARE FINE

WINNERS.

Class "C."—Joseph.
Class "B."—Tommy Pointer.
Class "A."—King Onward.
Half Mile Dash—Waddie Lee.
Three-fourths Mile Dash—Wyoming.

Plenty of sport was furnished the horse lovers yesterday afternoon when the Statine club had a splendid program of races at Edgewood. It was ladies' day and they did not fail to take advantage of the opportunity. Despite the fact that the track was slow, the races were close and good time was made by the winners.

In the first race Joseph, owned by R. B. Phillips and driven by C. H. Harris; Ella P., owned and driven by W. M. Tucker; Charlotte O., owned and driven by Hume Ogilvie, were entered. Ella P. had an easy time winning the first heat, but the second and third heats were captured by Joseph. All of the horses lost their feet frequently, and it was the only race that went over two heats. The time was 2:49.

Tommy Pointer was too rapid for Gus B. or Dr. M. and Tommy won easily, despite a splendid run by Dr. M. Tommy Pointer, owned by William Glass and driven by William Thornton; Dr. M., owned by Hugh Marshall and driven by T. W. Settle, and Gus B., owned by W. M. Tucker and driven by C. H. Harris, were entered. In the second heat Tommy Pointer just won from Dr. M. by a nose. The time was 2:21.

King Onward won the third race in splendid style, and won in straight heats from Billy Buck, the favorite. The entries were: King Onward, owned by J. W. Lewis and driven by T. W. Settle; Billy Buck, owned and driven by A. S. Thompson; Sarah McLure, owned by W. M. Tucker and driven by C. H. Harris. King Onward won the race in faultless style and not a misstep was made, while Billy Buck broke several times despite the good driving of Mr. Thompson. The time was 2:21.

In the running race between Waddie Lee, owned by Wes Fowors, and B. M. Robo, owned by Dickerson & Harris, both had a splendid start, but Waddie Lee took the lead after the wire was crossed, and maintained it throughout. Both horses made a good race, but Waddie Lee came under the wire in .51 and carried off the blue ribbon.

The fifth race was a running three-fourths of a mile between Fore Piece, owned by E. W. Mackelroy; Wyoming, owned by J. Small, of Mayfield, and Ball Shed, owned by Clarence Dickerson. Wyoming and Fore Piece had a merry fight, but Wyoming took the lead at almost the start and maintained it until the victory was called. The time was 1:17.

The officers were: Col. T. J. Stahl, starter, and Dr. W. J. Bass, J. W. Keller and Harry Hollingsworth, timers and starters.

The races were pulled off in good time and the throngs of spectators between heats was a thing of the past that kept the crowd in good spirits. Every body had returned to the city by 5:30 o'clock. Deal's band played between heats.

MUST BE HUGHES, SAYS ROOSEVELT

President Tells His Republican Conference.

Executive Declares Effect of Republican Would Be a Hard Blow to the National Ticket.

PARTY'S HONOR IS AT STAKE.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 22.—At a short, sharp and decisive conference at Sagamore Hill this afternoon President Roosevelt heard republican leaders report and then the dictum went forth that Hughes must be the party's nominee for governor of New York. Present at the conference were Frank H. Hitchcock, Assistant Secretary of State, and George J. Smith, treasurer of the New York state committee, and James S. Sherman, vice presidential nominee.

Chairman Hitchcock came to Oyster Bay with his mind already made up on the subject and he told the newspaper men that he would have a statement to give out concerning Mr. Hughes after he returned from the conference at Sagamore Hill. After Mr. Hitchcock had talked with the president, however, he changed his mind and telephoned down to the executive office that there would be nothing to give out.

President Orders All Quiet.

The president, it is said, argued that absolute silence would be the better policy at this time; if anything had to be given out, it should come from Mr. Hitchcock after he got back to the New York headquarters.

While today's conference was the most important held this summer, it also was the shortest. From start to finish it did not last two hours and this included luncheon time. According to a gentleman who was present at Sagamore Hill while the conference was on the president made it plain that Gov. Hughes was the strongest candidate by far that the organization could accept. He pointed out, it is said, that the governor's acceptance or rejection would have a far-reaching effect, and other states besides New York had to be considered.

The president argued that Hughes represented a great moral movement, that decent people in all northern states were watching his crusade, and for the republican party to turn him down at this time would be an admission that the party was not in sympathy with his moral purposes. He did not find it hard to convince his audience.

Only One Hour on Hughes.

The first matter to come up for consideration was the question of Hughes' renomination. That was disposed of in less than an hour, everybody present insisting on the proposition that Hughes was the strongest candidate in sight.

Campaign contributions came up for consideration, and the whole political field was carefully gone over.

SALT IN CHINA.

Production, Consumption, Revenue From Salt, Tax, Price, Etc.

The following information concerning salt production and consumption in China is furnished by Consul Wilbur T. Harvey of Tsingtau, who states that the statistics were secured mainly from a German government report.

Salt in China is produced from salt wells and sea water by boiling and evaporation. The evaporation is granular and is not considered as the process of halting. The annual consumption of salt in China is estimated at 1,512,000 metric tons.

The salt tax is exclusively a government monopoly. All the salt produced must be sold either to the government or to licensed merchants, who purchase the right to supply certain areas of consumption. Those merchants receive salt certificates, empowering them to buy and sell certain quantities of salt. The salt tax as fixed in 1905, as 1 tael per picul (71.6 cents per 133 1-3 pounds).

The salt tax is considered one of the principal revenues of the empire, and it is estimated that it amounts to 15,000,000 taels a year (about $9,000,000 per annum), to which, according to some authorities, should be added salt land tax, salt head tax, salt land rent and the salt pan tax.

The retail price of salt varies in the different parts of the empire, but average 25 to 30 cents cash per picul (11.6 to 13.5 cents per 133 1-3 pounds). The importation of salt into China is prohibited by treaty.

From a $500,000 Bakery

Picture in your mind a $500,000 bakery, with white tile ovens. With all the baking rooms on the TOP floor—flooded with sunlight and pure air.

Can you imagine any but the crispest, the purest, the daintiest biscuit coming from such a bakery as that?

Then let the biscuits, themselves, by their taste, their crispness, their daintiness, decide whether or not they are better than all other biscuits.

ANNEXATION

END OF KING LEOPOLD'S CRUEL-TIES ASSURED.

Monarch Retains Fortune—Principally Estate Provided in Cession of Dependency to Government.

Brussels, Aug. 22.—After several months of bitter struggle, the chamber of deputies adopted the Congo annexation treaty by 83 votes to 55. Although today's action probably solves the great Congo problem, there still remains open the important question of Belgium's financial responsibility.

The passage of the treaty means that the annexation of the state to Belgium is now practically assured, as the senate and King Leopold are ready to endorse the bill. The personal rule of King Leopold in Africa is now drawing to a close—in the future he will have nothing to do with the state, which is to be administered by Belgium—and the hope is widespread that there will now be an end to the atrocities and misadministration in this part of the world, which for years past, has been a subject of investigation and bitter complaint by humanitarians all over the world. Other governments became deeply interested in bringing about the introduction of reforms in the Congo and it became known last year that Great Britain and the United States had about decided to interfere in the Congo administration unless the situation there improved.

Compromise on Finances.
The members of the cabinet and King Leopold held a long conference after which it was officially given out that in order to avoid the danger of a collapse of the annexation movement the government had decided, in a spirit of conciliation, to accept the action of the chamber with regard to Congo finances. The members of the ministry will, therefore, retain their portfolios.

The situation regarding the annexation of the Congo independent state was thrown into great confusion last year by the action of King Leopold in withdrawing the control of the crown domain the richest part of the Congo, from the regular Congo administration in order to prevent the passage of the domain to Belgium, should annexation be consummated.

This action was bitterly resented by the friends of annexation in parliament, as a usurpation of Belgium's national heritage, and the opposition became so great that in February of this year King Leopold changed his attitude and agreed to abandon the crown domain and the crown foundation to Belgium, stipulating that Belgium should not only assume all the Congo obligations, amounting to $21, 000,000, but undertake also to continue the King's usufruct in the Congo revenues during his lifetime. Belgium was required specially to require specifically to respect the concessions granted to two American companies in 1906, in which Thomas F. Ryan is interested. These stipulations were embodied in the final draft of the treaty.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

County Court Clerk.

The Sun is authorized to announce Hiram Smedley a candidate for reelection to the office of Clerk of the McCracken County Court subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Daily Thought.

"The blessings we lose are the ones we will not use."

Haziz El Ily has the hay fever. Mustard him Alfalfa.

"Dennis P. Smith, the plucky commonwealth's attorney down in the night rider district, is willing for the people to judge whether he belongs to the lawless element. He has announced for reelection and has demanded a primary," says the Bowling Green Messenger.

Yes, Dennis seems to be showing them where he stands.

THE WORKINGMAN AND THE TARIFF.

Mr. Bryan says:

"For 25 years the American workman has been told that he receives higher wages than the English workman solely because of protection, but our wage earners now know that this cannot be due to protection, because the English workman receives higher wages than the German workman, although the German tariff is higher than the tariff of Great Britain.

"Protection does not make good wages. Our better wages are due to the greater intelligence and skill of our workmen, to the greater hope which free institutions give them, to improved machinery, to the better conditions that surround them, and to the organizations which have been formed among the wage earners."

The American workman lives better than the European man in the same occupation. Who will deny that?

More American workmen own their own homes. Who denies that? Living better and owning his home, the American workman can save more money, than can the European workman.

Why? Because he receives better wages.

Now he lives better, in a better house and saves more money than does his European fellow craftsman, in spite of the fact that the cost of living here is higher than in Europe.

Do not forget that this fall, whenever it is remarked that the American workman receives better wages than the workman in Europe, someone will say: "Well, but the cost of living is higher," as if the difference in cost of living were in proportion to the difference in wages.

The workman here receives higher wages, primarily because the manufacturer can afford to pay higher wages. This does not mean that the American workman is not superior to all others, nor does it mean that the manufacturer out of his hoary bestows wealth on the workman in his country, but that the manufacturer could not afford to pay the wages he could not, and therefore efforts to make him would result only in closing his factory.

Now if European made goods which labor, the principal item of cost in the manufacture, is cheap, were brought into the country in direct competition with American made goods, would not the American made goods have to be sold at the European price, plus the nominal transportation charges of government subsidized steamships? And would not American manufacturers then have to cut down the principal item of expense in the manufacture of their products—the cost of labor?

The existence of labor unions is made certain by their ability to maintain the wage scale. If European competition should force American manufacturers to reduce expenses, labor unions could not maintain the scale, and then unionism and American industries would go down in the general smash. In that event what would the union man care about the differences between the anti-injunction plank?

There are inequalities in the Dingley tariff, which must be rectified, and errors which time has exposed, but the principle is correct; and American laboring men must not doubt the substance of protection in front of the shadow of injunction. The Republican platform offers the only injunction reform that will stand a constitutional test.

BRYAN OFF THE TARIFF.

In a lengthy speech at Des Moines last night Mr. Bryan failed to explain the ambiguity of his tariff platform, but rather increased the doubt as to its real import. In his speech of acceptance he declared that the platform is the last word and anything a candidate promises, not specifically set forth in the platform, is obiter dictum. Yet Mr. Bryan made a free trade speech last night, and his platform is not a free trade platform. He urges all the old stock argument of the free trader; but evidently chastened by former experiences, after proving to his own satisfaction that the principle of the protective tariff is wrong and that free trade is the only honest system, he hedges in these words:

"The Democratic plan does not contemplate an immediate change from one system to the other; it expressly declares that the change shall be gradual, and a gradual change is only possible where the country is satisfied with the results of each step taken."

We may assume then that the framers of the platform are not sure of their ground.

When he says: "But the people cannot safely entrust the execution of this important work to a party which is so deeply obligated to the highly protected interests as is the Republican party," he forgets that the Republican party was put in power by the people, and that as far as the government is concerned the Republican party is the people, the majority and merely carrying out the policies endorsed year after year by the people of the country. Only once in forty years with the tariff issue prominent every time, and Mr. Bryan prominent nearly half the time, have the Republicans lost, and that time, instead of "fasting in the wilderness," as Mr. Bryan suggested for the Republican leader, the country reported on free soap and Mr. Bryan will not make any votes by hanging out that free soap sign this year.

In the course of his argument Mr. Bryan said: "The Democratic party in its platform and through its representatives in congress has for years pointed out that the tariff schedule is excessively high and ought to be reduced, but the Republicans have until recently refused to admit that there was any necessity for reduction."

That is positively false, except as to the fact that Republicans did not admit that all the Dingley schedules are too high, or any great number of them. Further along in his discourse Mr. Bryan quotes Mr. Taft and others exactly on this point.

The principle of free trade is that the cost comes off the consumer and the protective tariff imposes an extra cost on protected goods, that the consumer must pay to the American producer. An honest advocate of that principle would favor a direct tax on property to conduct the operations of the government; for even a tariff for revenue only imposes a burden upon the consumer.

A man, who objects to the protective principle, and advocates an import tariff is not fair with himself. Yet, the Democratic platform nowhere discusses any principle involved; but because the Republican party has declared that a tariff twelve years old needs revising by schedule, the Bryan platform insists that such declaration is an admission that he was right all along, and Bryan proceeds to argue that a party always opposed to the protective principle should be allowed to revise the tariff. And here is how it would revise the tariff:

"With a president who, toward the close of his term, admitted the necessity for tariff revision, with a two-thirds majority in the senate and nearly 60 majority in the house, the Republican party has refused to permit any revision whatever. Mr. W. H. Hines, the leader of the minority in the house, introduced a bill providing for a reduction of the tariff to ten per cent, wherever it is now more than 100 per cent. It would look like the Republican party might have taken this step toward tariff revision."

The Republican party clings to the protective theory and would leave the thousands of schedules to the consideration of experts. The Bryan idea is to slash all schedules exactly the same, regardless of differences in conditions surrounding them. Paint, sugar, wood, pictures, cloth, engine, whisky, glass, hides and toothpicks. It makes no difference; make the tariff on all of them the same.

The tariff is injurious and wrong, but "the Democratic plan does not contemplate an immediate change from one system to another."

Remember, Cleveland's free trade congress? Ohio Democrats wanted everything on the free list but wool. Louisiana Democrats wanted everything on the free list, but sugar, and so on. The tariff is a local issue. That's what Bryan means.

DUN'S REVIEW.

Dun's Weekly Review.

New York, Aug. 22.—Trade and industrial activity continues to expand, the improvement being of a conservative nature and promises permanency. There is little disposition to anticipate future, but current distribution is larger and mercantile collections are more prompt. In manufacturing lines the iron and steel industry is steadily adding to the output and the shoe shops are receiving substantial contracts.

A few special sales of pig iron have been made at concessions from the former quotations, some merchant furnaces seeking all business offered, but the general level of prices is not materially altered, and there is a distinct improvement in demand. Most of the recorded transactions are for this year's delivery, each week bringing a little larger consumption at steel mills and some reduction of stocks in furnace yards.

Extreme quiet conditions prevail in the primary markets for cotton goods. On some lines of men's wear woollen initial purchases have been completed and many wholesale clothiers have returned home. Some dyers have sold well, but on the whole the results are not satisfactory.

Bank Clearings.

New York, Aug. 22.—Total bank clearings compiled by Dun's for the principal cities of the United States for the past week $2,319,675,000 against $2,588,750,000 in the corresponding week last year.

TOBACCO NEWS

Louisville, Aug. 22.—The Louisville Tobacco Warehouse company is issuing the following review of the leaf tobacco market:

"The sales on our market for one week, including yesterday, amounted to 550 hogheads, divided as follows: Harley, 166; dark, 193. "Harley" prices this week have been a shade stronger than last week on the common and medium grades, both red and bright. The good to fine grades, which we quoted last week as being somewhat easier, have gone down another notch this week and reflections of this grade have been numerous.

"Dark"—We have had another dull market this week in dark tobacco; neither the fine nor unfine grades have shown any improvement over prices that ruled last week, and there is no snap whatever to the market. Dark grades continue very strong.

Murray Tobacco Sales.

The local market disposed of 43 hogheads of association tobacco this week at prices ranging from $8 to $10.

About 500 hogheads of tobacco were reggraded here two weeks ago and account of damaged condition and over-tying.

The total number of hogheads stored here this season is 1,164, with sales to date of about 1,875—Ledger.

A Cheap Kitten.

"A scrumptious!" said Senator Deane, "once entered a plover's house. In the voter's absence he pleaded his cause to the mayor's wife. Finally a wretched kitten on the floor, he said: 'I'll give you $25 for that animal, ma'am.' She accepted the terms. The senator, then, thinking the kitten in his overcoat pocket rose to go. At the door he said: 'I hope you can persuade your husband to vote for me, ma'am.' 'I'll try to,' said the woman, 'though I'm a hard man to move when his mind's made up; but anyhow, you've got a real cheap kitten there. Your opponent was in yesterday and gave you $50 for his brother.'"

"She has used him for divorce." "On what grounds?" "Incompatibility of income. I understand it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Several minutes passed. Once she heard her groom speak to the horses, though she could not see him, but the charm of the place held her. She raised her eyes from the humming water before her and looked out through the wide range. Then she drew back quickly and clasped her riding crop tightly. Some one had paused at the farther edge of the maple brake and, dismounted, as she had, for a more intimate enjoyment of the place. It was John Armitage, tapping his riding boot idly with his crop as he leaned against a tree and viewed the miniature valley. He was a little below her, so that she saw him quite distinctly and caught a glimpse of his horse's jaw, with red neck, in the bridge path behind him. She had no wish to meet him there and turned to steal back to her horse when a movement in the maples below caught her eye. She paused, fascinated and alarmed by the cautious air of the undergrowth.

The air was perfectly quiet; the disturbance was not caused by the wind.

The form rose and joined for a moment.

Then the head and shoulders of a man were seen as he crouched on hands and knees, watching Armitage. His small head and big body as he crept forward suggested to Shirley some faint remembrance of legend, and her heart beat fast with terror as a knife flashed in his hand. He moved more rapidly, and the slight figure by the tree still Shirley watched wide-eyed, as he drew near and from him, the dark form held the crop half raised to her, while the dark form rose and passed on a spring.

Then she heard her voice ringing clear and true across the little vale and coming back from the cliff. "Oh, oh!" she breathed, forgot for a moment and turned. His crop fell and he opened the railed land, knowing the knife for its true use, then upon the face and shoulders of the man. The fellow turned and deliriously the maple branches and shrubs and shrubs ran back to the bridge where she had left her groom and he was hurrying away.

That is it, my dear, I'm going off to the city."

"No, it was nothing. I was looking out at all," and the moment and turned toward home.

Her heart was still pounding with excitement, and she walked her horse to gain composure. Twice a strong shudder had passed over her, and she had witnessed an attack on John Armitage by an unknown man. She recalled now a certain piece of the scene as she first saw him, and she remembered the loss of the riding crop, and she was not without her own private opinion as to the man's identity.

It made no difference to John Armitage, his enemy was a coward, and the horror of such a scene to a man's life applied her. She turned a mounted policeman, who recognized her and raised his head in salute, but the idea of reporting the strange affair in the steps of wood and turned to her only to be dismissed.

She felt that there was an ugly business that was not within the grasp of a park policeman, and, moreover, John Armitage was entitled to pursue his own course in matters that touched his life so closely. The thought of him returned to her. He was no simple boy to suffer such attacks to pass unchallenged, and so, dismissing him, she raised her head and saw him gallop forth from a lynch and red his horse beside her.

"Miss Calloway!" The suppressed feeling in his tone made the moment tense, and she saw that his lips trembled. It was a situation that must have his quick relief, so she said instantly in a mockery of his own tone:

"Mr. Armitage!" She laughed. "I

AUTHORITY FOR CITY SOLICITOR

To Go Wherever Necessary in Telephone Case.

Granted by Board of Aldermen at Adjourned Session Last Night—(Other Business.)

ROUTINE SESSION IS SHORT.

That the city solicitor and the attorneys assisting him to represent the city in the litigation with the East Tennessee Telephone company should largely control the conduct of the case and go anywhere they may choose to take depositions was the judgment of the members of the board of aldermen last night. A resolution was adopted that the city pay the traveling expenses of the solicitor to New York and Boston or to any other city, where it may be deemed proper that he go in the interest of this case.

The matters transacted by the board last night were largely routine and the session was one of the shortest in several months, only one hour being taken up in the session.

The regular monthly accounts, amounting to $5,418.30, were allowed and ordered paid.

The ordinance giving saloonkeepers the privilege of transferring city licenses with permission of the general council, was given final passage. A demand Stewart voted against the ordinance.

Ordinances for the opening of an alley between Tennessee and Jones streets from Ninth street to Twelfth street, and from Sixteenth street to Eighteenth street were given passage.

The city engineer was ordered to extend the sanitary sewer from Fourteenth and Burnett streets to Oak Grove cemetery. The estimated cost of the work is $285.

The proposition of Mrs. Morris Thomas to dedicate property for street purposes was referred to the street committee.

It was ordered that the city solicitor take steps to compel George Bernhard to remove fences and buildings from a strip of property on Plunkett's Hill that is owned by the city. Similar instruction was given regarding a strip of ground at Thirtieth street and Broadway occupied by Mrs. Sanders.

A deed was ordered made to A. S. Elliott for property at Eighth and Ohio streets.

A deed was ordered made to Mrs. W. J. Bikes for a lot in Oak Grove cemetery.

The roof over the city engineer's office was ordered repaired, the cost not to exceed $25.

MALARIA AND WEAK HEART

The following interesting story told by Mr. J. H. Riley, Pensioned Fireman of South Boston, Mass., is a sample of the thousands received from grateful men and women who have been benefited by the World's great tonic-stimulant.

In an interview Mr. Riley said: "I joined the Fire Department of South Boston in 1890 and was lately pensioned off because of a bad fall while in service, which telescoped my spine."

"A little over a year ago I was taken sick while in the engine house, and it developed into heart trouble and malaria. I went to a number of doctors and went through a course of treatment from each, but I did not receive much benefit from any of them. The doctors would not let me go in swimming, nor smoke, nor drink anything but water. I stopped both tea and coffee. My case was getting very serious when a friend said to me: 'Why don't you get a bottle of Duffy's Malt Whiskey? I know a man who was given up for all time, and he took Duffy's Malt Whiskey and to-day he is as well a man as you can find.' So I commenced taking Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and the result is that the doctors now say that I am all right, and I never felt better in my life. Of course, I am very little good as far as heavy work is concerned, owing to my injury, but I am well, and that is a good thing to be able to say. I thank you for the remedy that put me on my feet again."

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

YOUNG WOMAN HORRIBLY USED

Soldiers of Post in Wyoming Assault Her.

Prisoners Chained and Under Heavy Guard—32 Men Waylaid Lady and Escort.

LYNCHING IS NOW IMMINENT

Laramie, Wyo., Aug. 22.—While every effort has been made by the authorities at Camp Emmett Crawford, military maneuver ground, to keep the facts secret, it is said that one of the most atrocious crimes was committed last Sunday by members of the artillery battery, who assaulted a young woman.

According to the story, a non-commissioned officer of the Twenty-first regiment was escorting a young woman when they were attacked by 32 men of the artillery battery. The officer was beaten into insensibility with a gun and the woman dragged to an isolated spot and assaulted.

After lying half dead for hours the victim revived and succeeded in crawling to a house some distance away and told her story.

Twenty-six men alleged to have been implicated in the outrage are under arrest and are chained together in the camp prison.

The other three are still at large.

TRAVELS ABROAD---SUEZ CANAL FROM PORT SAID TO CAIRO

The Funny Things One Sees

By
MARSHALL P. WILDER

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

It was a fine, cool morning when we reached that historic artery of water that joins the Red sea with the Mediterranean, the Suez canal.

This unprepossessing "ditch," as it has so often been called, has been held responsible almost as much as the unbridled extravagance of Ismail Pasha, for the financial ruin of Egypt, and her occupation by Great Britain.

Despite dire prophecy, and centuries of failure for nearly every ruler of Egypt, from Seli, father of Mohammed the Great to Napoleon Bonaparte, tried his hand at the problem of establishing water communication between the Mediterranean and the Red sea—the great canal has become a fixed fact in the world's history. The one-time American consul general at Cairo, Mr. Frederick Courtland Penfield, in his charming and instructive book, "Present Day Egypt," lets in much pleasant light upon the misty, old traditions of the ancient land.

Strabo, now, he's the world's earliest geographer and historian, or one of 'em, and I suppose we are bound to believe him, even when he says (he must have said it, for I've never seen any of his handwriting lying around) that 14 centuries before the Christian era (that's an awful long time, Strabo; but I'll not dispute the word of a gentleman) Seli cut a canal 67 miles long from Babastia near the present town of Zigzag—I mean Zaqzig—to Heropolis, at the head of the Bitter lakes, then forming the northern extremity of the Suez gulf.

Herodotus—another old-timer who juggles with centuries as the circus clown juggles with his old hat—says that 800 years later Necho the Persian tried a little canal building, keeping it at it till the mere trifle of a hundred and twenty thousand lives had been sacrificed in the job, and only abandoning it when the great oracle of that day (whom he consulted) prophesied that the most dire results would follow the completion of the work, and the entire land of Egypt be given over to the stranger and the barbarian.

Then, successively, the Roman emperors Trajan and Hadrian; the Arabian conqueror Amroq; the great Napoleon, who held the hollow of the Heavens in his usurping hand; Mehmet Ali, who had butchered 400 Mamelukes before supper, but had not the daring to brave the ancient prophecy; French engineers, English engineers, Austrian engineers, each and all, tried their hand, but to no definite end. They disagreed as to the level of the two seas. Napoleon's engineers estimated that the Mediterranean was 30 feet below the level of the Red sea, calling for a scheme of sluices and locks. Waghorn, an Englishman, declared that the level of the two waters was identical.

Meanwhile, a young Frenchman was dreaming dreams; he was eloquent; he was convincing; and he finally convinced Seli Pasha that the future was lettered big with the name of Ferdinand de Lesseps, and if a concession were given to him, he would make Egypt and France both immortal. He got the concession. Seli cared nothing for the ancient oracle that had frightened his grandfather Mehmet, and so Fate swept on with her relentless broom; and Seli was gathered to his fathers; Ismail the magnificent, the extravagant, a prince of immense fortune, succeeded his uncle and also succeeded in plunging his unhappy country up to the neck in bonds and mortgages galore; Europe stepped in; England became the purchaser of Ismail's personal holding (only $20,000,000 saved from the wreck of $50,000,000) which he surrendered to his creditors a short time before his dethronement and banishment to Naples.

Ismail not only laured, in his brief rule of 16 years, a debt of over $400,000,000, but he mortgaged the souls of generations of Egyptians yet unborn. And thus did the prophecy come true! The ancient oracle spoke not in vain. The bond of the Pharaohs and the Ptolemies, of Alexander and Cleopatra, has passed into the hands of the stranger.

The canal's varied and almost tragic history lent an added interest to the dull and monotonous aspect that it presents, the flat sandy banks meeting out into the desert, unbroken save for the occasional government stations, a steamer tied to the bank waiting for ours to pass, or a collection of mud houses belonging to Arabs, whose camels and donkeys were tethered nearby.

At times, small boys would race along the banks, easily keeping pace with the slowly moving steamer, crying for "Backschoelsh," to which the passengers and crew responded by tossing fruit and packages of food and money to them.

Great steam dredgers were frequently passed working constantly to keep the canal passable for steamers, as sand and silt are continually filling it up.

Port Said is a town of some importance, very much larger than Suez, but in the flying glimpse we caught of it in the course of a wild, early-morning ride to catch the train for Cairo, we were impressed by its dirt and noise more than by anything else.

The ride to Cairo was tiresome for many reasons, chiefly because of the dust and flies, and a family wild shared the compartment with us, together with a mountain of luggage.

The changing interest of the landscape, however, made us forget the annoyances, for were not the scenes of the Bible spread out before us like an open book. The shepherd with his flock; the camels either resting or marching slowly; the mud houses surrounded by palms; the women carrying water jars on their heads, walking splendidly, laughing lightly from their hips. A family working among the fertile fields; little girls tending goats and winding wool on a distaff as they watched, or else a venerable old man in floating draperies riding a diminutive donkey.

During the ride we were much edified by one of the English party with us saying as we passed a station: "There's a fine engine, a splendid engine, by Jove!"

"That's an American engine," said the other man, adding, before we had lost our little glow of patriotic pride, "but we don't care for their out here, they burn such a lot of coal and are so very dirty!" To our humble suggestion that perhaps they made up for this defect by being fast, he assented condescendingly that they were fast, "but so dirty, you know!"

The great barrage, near Cairo, constructed to hold back the surplus waters and thus irrigate a larger area, was begun in 1835 from plans made by Mongel Bay, a Frenchman. The English took over the work and a chance to boast of his country's superiority in the matter of the reclamation of Egypt under British "occupation," and a great story is told by Colonel Penfield of one of these plotterers who was acquainted with a proud air, the great barrage.

"Yes, it's a great work, and these foreigners ought to better appreciate what we are doing for their good. This thing has put them on their feet, financially, sure enough, but I don't see that they show any gratitude for our having built it!"

"I beg your pardon," said the engineer in charge, "but this barrage was designed and built by French engineers!"

"I didn't know that," replied the tourist, somewhat subdued, "but anyway, they have to get an Englishman to take care of it!"

"I beg your pardon again," said the gentleman with D. P. W. on his cap

Conclusion Reached By Professor After Study of Records.

A professor has just gone deeply into the records of achievements of the world's chief workers and thinkers, and finds that the average age for the performance of the master work is 50. For the workers the average is 17 and for the thinkers 52. Chemists and physicians average the youngest, at 41; poets at 41; novelists at 46; explorers at 48; artists and clergymen, 50; composers and actors, 48; essayists and reformers, 51; physicians and statesmen, 52; philosophers, 54; mathematicians and humorists, 56; historians, 57; naturalists and jurists, 58. The professor concludes that if health and optimism remain "the man of 50 can command success as readily as the man of 20."

Origin of Our Free Public Schools.

The public school system came into existence through the agitation of a group of weavers, tailors, and mechanics in Philadelphia, New York and Boston. These workmen organized a party in 1829 with "free public schools, where the children of rich and poor alike can attend on an equal footing," as its chief demand. A public meeting called to discuss this proposition in Philadelphia at the old City Hall was broken up by the police and the speaker arrested and taken to jail. And the New York Evening Post of that day called on "the bankers, the preachers, the merchants, and other respectable members of society," to organize to put down "this pernicious agitation which threatens to undermine the very foundations of society."—William Mallory, in Success Magazine.

S.S.S. A CURE FOR S.S.S. RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood, which is carried through the circulation to all portions of the system. Every muscle, nerve, bone and joint absorbs the acid, pain-producing poison, causing aches, inflammation, stiffness and other well known symptoms of the disease. Permanent relief from the pains and discomfort of Rheumatism cannot be expected from the use of liniments, plasters, and other external treatment which does not reach the blood, where the cause is located. Such measures give temporary relief, but in order to cure Rheumatism the uric acid and inflammatory poison must be expelled from the blood. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism because it is a perfect blood purifier. It goes down into the circulation, neutralizes the uric acid and drives it from the blood. S. S. S. expels the irritating, inflammatory matter which is causing the pain, swelling and other discomfort, enriches the weak, sour blood, and permanently cures Rheumatism. In all forms of Rheumatism, whether acute or chronic, S. S. S. will be found a safe, vegetable remedy, possessing the properties needed to cure, and at the

HIS OPINION OF NIGHT RIDING

Hopkinsville, Aug. 22.—Internal Revenue Collector Ed Franks in his speech at Hopkinsville today said in part:

We have come to the brink of another campaign, when 16,000,000 voters must say at the ballot box, where all great questions are settled, as to who shall control the destiny of the nation for the next four years. I am glad to know that with its history written and indelibly stamped upon the hearts and minds of the people, that the Republican party can look upon the past without regret, and into the future without fear; realizing that the hand that has so well guided the ship of state for 44 years, through all perplexing questions that have come and gone, can safely be trusted to pilot the ship over the unknown seas of the future. Under the leadership of such men as Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, Harrison, McKinley and Roosevelt, this country has become the greatest nation on earth.

Prosperity of the Country.
There was a time when this country's prosperity was confined to the north and east, but I am glad to know that under protection to American industry and American labor, it is now so universal that you can find its magnificent results in every nook and corner of every state and territory, over which floats the proudest flag that ever waved over a free and an independent people.

Bryan Claims Panic.
Mr. Bryan says that, "the panic business has been transferred from the Democrats to the Republicans and that the people of the west woke up one morning to learn that they could not draw their money out of the banks."

Different Kinds of Panics.
The difference between a Republican panic and a Democratic panic, is, under a Republican panic for 60 days the people could not draw their money out of the banks; while under a Democratic panic, for four years the people had no money to put in the banks. But they tell us that under a Republican panic the laboring man's wages have been cut. If they will examine the records of the country during the administration of the only Democratic administration that has experienced in 48 years, they will find that during that administration the laboring man had no wages to cut. I do not look for a serious panic so long as the prices of the mill, mine, factory and farm remain as firm as they are today.

A Comparison of Administrations.
I am going to show you the difference between the administration of Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Roosevelt, and in order to be absolutely fair, I am going to take the four years of Mr. Cleveland and compare them with the last four years of Mr. Roosevelt, one year in each administration would not be a fair test.

Prices of Farm Products Under Two Administrations.

The average price of wheat under Mr. Cleveland's last administration on December 1 was 36 cents per bushel, while the average price under the last four years of Mr. Roosevelt's administration was 80 cents per bushel, making a difference of 44 cents per bushel, there was produced in this country in the last four years of Mr. Roosevelt, 2,073,632,361 bushels of wheat at an increased price of 44 cents per bushel, would amount to $912,717,766 in favor of the Roosevelt administration as against the Cleveland administration, in one item alone.

I challenge Mr. Bryan or any Democratic speaker in the land, to give a single instance, yes, I will go further, he can take every article that was bought and sold under the Cleveland administration that brought more money than the same article brought 12½ cents per pound, at shearing time, while the average price under the last four years of Mr. Roosevelt was 26 cents per pound, making a difference of 14½ cents per pound, in favor of the Roosevelt administration and there was produced in this country in 1907, 256,294,750 pounds of wool at 14½ cents per pound (the difference paid under the two administrations) would amount to $37,062,738 annually. Multiply that by four and you have $148,250,952, or the amount four years of Mr. Bryan would cost the wool growers of this country.

It would cost the Kentucky wool growers $496,362 annually, or $1,625,448 in four years.

I should think those producing wool would hesitate a long time before placing another Democrat in charge at Washington.

The average price of corn on December 1, under Mr. Cleveland's administration was 22 cents per bushel, while the average price under Mr. Roosevelt's administration was 44 cents per bushel, an increase of 22 cents per bushel, there was produced during the last four years of Mr. Roosevelt 3,567,159,271 bushels of corn at an increase of 22 cents per bushel, would amount to $1,236,426,467, in favor of the Roosevelt administration.

The average price of oats on December 1, under Mr. Cleveland's administration was 25 cents per bushel, while the average price under Mr. Roosevelt's administration was 34 cents per bushel, and there was produced during the last four years of Mr. Roosevelt 3,567,159,271 bushels of oats at nine cents per bushel, the difference paid under Mr. Roosevelt in excess of the price paid under Mr. Cleveland amounts to $221,044,234. I would like for Mr. Bryan to explain that away.

The average price of rye under Mr. Cleveland's administration on December 1 was 46 cents per bushel, while the average price under Mr. Roosevelt was 65 cents per bushel, making a difference of 19 cents per bushel in favor of the Roosevelt administration, and there was produced in this country in the last four years of Mr. Roosevelt 120,668,300 bushels of rye at an increased price of 19 cents per bushel, would amount to $22,926,977, which do you prefer raising rye for the Cleveland market at 46 cents, or the Roosevelt market at 65 cents per bushel?

The average price of barley on December 1, under Mr. Cleveland's administration was 38 cents per bushel, while the average price under Mr. Roosevelt's administration was 48 cents per bushel, an increase of 10 cents per bushel, or more than 25 per cent, and there was produced the last four years by the American farmer 608,913,462 bushels of barley at an increased price of 10 cents per bushel and you have $60,891,346 that went directly into the pockets of the farmer, more than would have gone if the Democrats had remained in power. I wonder if the American farmer wants to change back?

The average price of buckwheat on December 1, was 49 cents per bushel, while the average price under Mr. Roosevelt was 60 cents per bushel, an increase of 11 cents per bushel, and there was produced during the last four years of Mr. Roosevelt 58,255,355 bushels of buckwheat, at an increased price of 11 cents per bushel, amounting to $6,407,789. Buckwheat cakes are good, but they come high under a Republican administration.

I have no statistics on the cotton crop of 1893 or 1907, so I will compare three years of Mr. Cleveland with three years of Mr. Roosevelt. The cotton crop under three years of Mr. Cleveland brought $844,335,056, while under three years of Mr. Roosevelt it brought $2,005,977,295, or practically 150 per cent more under Mr. Cleveland, in the face of this showing the cotton growers of the south are asked to return the Democratic party to power.

In seven products of the farm—wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley, buckwheat and cotton, the American farmer received under the last four years of Roosevelt $2,167,047,828 more than the same articles brought under the only Democratic administration this country has experienced in 48 years.

The value of horses, mules, cattle, sheep and hogs, under the four years of Mr. Cleveland was $8,201,695,825, while under the last four years of Mr. Roosevelt they were worth $15,436,588,032, or nearly 100 per cent increase. The increase in the value of farm animals during Mr. Roosevelt's last four years over Mr. Cleveland's last four years, amounted to seven billion dollars, or practically half as much as the entire wealth of the nation in 1860 when the Republican party took charge. But one will ask, will these low prices return again should Mr. Bryan and a Democratic congress be elected?

Patrick Henry made himself immortal when he said:

"I have but one lamp by which my feet are guided, and that is the lamp of experience. I know no way of judging the future by the past."

One thing we know is, it only happened one time in 48 years, and that was the only time the Democrats were in entire control, why should it not happen again if the American people should be so unkind to their own interests as to return that party to power again? When the Democrats came in, low prices came with them; low prices remained with them; when they went out, low prices went with them; and they are somewhere together today. If you could get one without the other, it would not be so bad, but that you cannot do.

The hay crop for the year 1907 was worth to the American farmer $743,607,000.

Mr. Bryan's Defeat.
Mr. Bryan made the race in 1896 and was defeated by 601,854 plurality. He made the race again in 1900 and was defeated by 849,790 plurality. He side-stepped in 1904 and his substitute was defeated by 2,545,715 plurality. If my party had been defeated by such minorities in the last three elections I should not ask the question, "Shall the people rule?"

Labor and Wages.

But our Democratic friends will say that you have shown where the farmer has been benefited in the increased prices of the products of his farm, but what about the laboring man? I wish to say in answer to that, that notwithstanding the fact that we have been going through a money panic since October last, that has, I am sorry to say, reduced the number of employees, and in some instances has reduced the wages of others, yet I have every reason in the world to believe that it is only temporary, because in some instances where wages were cut a few months ago, they have been restored, and in other places where the hours were shortened, they have been restored to full time. I can't mention many instances of returning prosperity, but will only mention one, which I read in a Democratic daily not long since, which sounds good to me, and I am sorry to say that I saw nothing like this during a Democratic administration.

He then took up wages and manufacturers, and concerning night riders he said in part:

"And in the face of all this and more, we are told by some that this question has two sides to it, and that we should withhold our judgment and criticism, until we hear the whole case. Listen to me. There is but one side to murder, there is but one side to arson. I say, and after due deliberation, that every barn burner in Kentucky ought to be in the penitentiary, and that every one connected with the shooting of innocent men at the dead hour of midnight ought to be hung by the neck until he is dead."

Listen to me again. The citizen, in whatever calling, who sympathizes with the night rider is equally guilty in the sight of God and man, and the official, whether he be great or small, who took an oath to uphold the law, and does not do all in his power to bring these offenders to justice, should be impeached and never allowed to hold office again; and the newspaper that wins at these crimes or defends them, which had their origin in hell, should not only be barred from the United States mails, but from every Christian home in the land.

It is not the good farmer that is guilty of these crimes; it is the criminal, who would be a criminal in any other calling of life, if the opportunity was only offered him.

Gentlemen, which side are you on? Which side are your county officials on? Which side is the public press of your county on?

You are either for the night riders or you are against them, you can not always judge a constituency by the officials it elects, if a majority of the people in your county are in favor of night riders you will elect public officials of the same character.

But one will say the American Tobacco company is violating the law if so, punish the American Tobacco company under the law, as I want the night rider punished under the law, as I want every other violator of the law whose duty it is to punish offenders, and not by a self constituted band of criminals.

"I thank God that I belong to a party that has always been in favor of law and order and should it ever desert these principles it will go to defeat, and it ought to."

"I want to see the farmer do well, because he deserves to do well, and because the prosperity of the country depends on the prosperity of the farmer."

"I want to see the Society of Equities, the Dark Tobacco Growers' association and the hawkeye organization live on and prosper. But I want to see their criminals hunted down and punished to the extent of the law; as I want to see all other criminals hunted down and punished. If these organizations expect to live and prosper and continue the good work for which they were organized, they must join hands with the officers of the law to see that the law is enforced."

"These organizations today are standing over a burning hell; because there are a great number of its members that are in those organizations through fear of injury to their person or their property; you cannot maintain any kind of an association where one part of the association is forced in through fear of the other part, and when the day of retribution begins it will be awful in its results; because if you have not favored arson and murder as a means of organization, you have wined at it by not assisting in bringing those offenders to justice."

"What we want now is law and order and criminals brought to justice."

"If your county and district officials will stand shoulder to shoulder, with your governor, you will stamp out this anarchy in less than thirty days."

"But one will say, 'You will bankrupt the state.' You had better bankrupt the state and have law and order, where life and property are safe, and have a sign over the door, 'It was done in the interest of law and order,' than to have an overflowing treasury where life and property are not protected, and where your state is filled with unpunished criminals."

"There is a class of men scattered over the state who, in trying to play to the galleries, complain because soldiers are sent into certain counties. It is my information that in many counties if it were not for the soldiers the citizens would have no protection at all, because the county officials are either night riders, or in sympathy with the night riders, or too cowardly to protect honest men against the night riders."

"As a rule soldiers are sent into a county to enforce the law, not to violate it, and I cannot understand why any good citizen should complain, if he is not violating the law, or does not intend to, the soldiers cannot hurt him."

"I showed a friend of mine this speech before I made it and he asked me the question: 'Aren't you afraid that you will injure the Republican

A Heroic Test.

He had been courting a girl for a long time. It happened on Sunday night after church. They were sitting on the sofa and she looked into his tender eyes into his noble blue eyes.

"Tom," she murmured, with a tremor in her voice, "didn't you tell me once you would be willing to do any act of heroism for my sake?"

"Yes, Mary; and I gladly reiterate that statement now," he replied, in confident tones. "No noble Roman of old was fired with a loftier ambition for a braver resolution than I."

"Well, Tom, I want you to do something really heroic for me."

"Speak, darling! What is it?"
